

Anti-American HISTORY !!
INTELLIGENCE EXTRAORDINARY.

Parnassus, 20th Feb. 1786.

YESTERDAY a waggon made its appearance at the foot of the hill, drawn by Dullness and Folly, driven by Impudence, escorted by Presumption and Arrogance, and followed by Imposition. It contained Proposals for printing by subscription the History of the American Revolution, by WILLIAM WHACKUM, D. D. and a number of printed receipts—one of each having been burnt by Pluto, according to a decree of Apollo, the rest were deposited in the privy for use. The waggon, with its attendants, being dismissed, were soon after seen passing through the land of ignorance in a fog, with a voluminous manuscript on its way to England.

To be disposed of, all kinds of State Securities, soldier's notes, and a few of Dr. Whackum's receipts, "ninety per cent. below par." Enquire at the sign of the Gull—Take-in alley.

If the History of our Revolution should not be as impartial as could be wished, the publick will no doubt excuse it, as it is said the Rev. Compiler has lost many essential particulars respecting the Burgoyne, the Cornwallis, the Monmouth affair, and several other events, which only Americans will look upon as important.

Quere. Should the vessel which carries off the Roxbury Divine, and his Manuscript History, happen to be cast away, who loses the Subscription money?

If the law to prevent Beggars going at large was put into execution, it is shrewdly suspected that Dr. G. would be subject to its penalty.

Whose expectation can be so high raised by the proposals of a certain Compiler, as to expect any other than a dirty performance, as all the merit this mealy-mouthed writer lays claim to, is his having been permitted to view the

Secrets of Congress, and look into the privies
of the American General.
