

Cisco Apert: An experienced teacher says that pupils who have access to newspapers at home, when compared to those who do not, are better readers, better spellers, better grammarians, better punctuators and read more understandingly, and obtain a practical knowledge of geography in almost half the time it requires others. The newspaper is decidedly an important factor in modern life. This will not be disputed by anyone who has taken the trouble to investigate the matter for himself.

Unquestionably. Newspapers are educators. In many respects they are superior to textbooks as mediums for the transmission of knowledge. The boy brought up on newspapers and magazines of the right kind has a better chance in life than the boy brought up altogether on books. A combination of the two is best.
