

Early American Newspapers, Series 11, 1803-1899: From Agrarian Republic to World Power

Newspapers Struggle for Regional Dominance

Quick Facts

Now available to students and scholars — 130 titles from all 50 U.S. states
Chronicles diverse facets of local, regional, and national U.S. history
Expands the political and geographical breadth and depth of previous series

Overview

Early American Newspapers, Series 11, 1803-1899, provides online access to more than 130 titles from all 50 present states. Based on the renowned holdings of the American Antiquarian Society (AAS), Series 11 offers new coverage of diverse facets of local, regional, and national U.S. history, culture and daily life. Created for students and scholars in diverse academic disciplines, Series 11 also significantly extends the political and geographical breadth and depth of the 10 previous series of Early American Newspapers, 1690-1922.

Notable titles from across the nation

Among the titles in Series 11 are many of the better and more influential newspapers in each American region—publications that survived on their own merits after the first wave of less-popular titles in the region died out. Also included are elusive runs of especially noteworthy newspapers that have only recently become available: the New York Herald, which soon would have the largest circulation of any paper in the world; New York World, one of the most powerful political papers in America; Charleston Mercury, an early advocate of Southern succession; Cherokee Advocate, the first newspaper in Indian Territory; and Sacramento Daily Union, heralded as “The Oldest Daily in the West.”

Other notable titles in Series 11 include the Philadelphia Gazette, one of the most successful newspapers in the region during a time when Philadelphia was the second largest city in America; New Orleans Commercial Bulletin, offering unusually detailed economic coverage, including slave-trade pricing; Missouri Democrat, the most eminent conservative daily in St. Louis when the city was the main gateway to the West; Austin State Gazette, one of the most prominent newspapers in Texas from the pre-Civil War era until Reconstruction; Phoenix Herald, founded 33 years before Arizona became a state; and the Weekly Alta California, San Francisco’s populist and independent paper chronicling the transformation of San Francisco into a major city. Additional titles in Series 11, all included for the first time in Early American Newspapers, are the Lynchburg Virginian, North Carolina Standard, Washington Weekly Union, Christian Register, Louisville Democrat, Cherokee Phoenix and many others.

Superior bibliographic control

Like other Early American Newspaper series, Series 11 offers many significant titles listed in the authoritative bibliographies by Clarence S. Brigham and Winifred Gregory. A distinguished academic advisory board guided the title selection process.

An Archive of Americana® collection

As part of America’s Historical Newspapers, Early American Newspapers, Series 11, shares a common interface with all other Readex newspaper collections, enabling seamless searching with American Ethnic Newspapers, American Newspaper Archives, Caribbean Newspapers, and all previous series of Early American Newspapers.

UNLOCK HISTORY.

For more information on this and other Readex collections, call 800.762.8182, email sales@readex.com or visit www.readex.com

Readex
A Division of NewsBank