

Early American Newspapers, Series 6, 1741-1922: Compromise and Disunion

National Debates of the Mid-19th Century

Quick Facts

Early American Newspapers, Series 6 presents more than 180 historical American newspapers

Expanded coverage from every region of the United States

Newspapers of special historical significance, regional weeklies and big-city dailies

“...rich with titles of national and local importance.... a real research gem for historians, all levels of college students....Highly recommended.”

— C. W. Bruns, California State University, Fullerton, in Choice (July 2014)

Overview

Series 6 provides more than 180 important 18th-, 19th- and 20th-century newspapers from every region of the United States. Drawing from the acclaimed newspaper collections of the American Antiquarian Society, Kansas Historical Society, the Library of Congress, Wisconsin Historical Society and other institutions, Series 6 further supplements the preceding series, resulting in enhanced research opportunities and more complete coverage of American history, culture and daily life.

Newspapers of special significance

Series 6 includes many new titles of singular importance, including the Detroit Plaindealer, Detroit's first successful black newspaper; The Colored American, which provided detailed coverage of the Amistad revolt; the Argus of Western America, an early Kentucky paper and a strong supporter of Andrew Jackson; and the Arkansas Gazette, one of the first papers west of the Mississippi. Other significant titles include the Kalamazoo Gazette, Kansas City Times, Northern Standard, Oregon State Journal and many more.

Extended coverage of essential titles

Series 6 also features substantial new runs of important titles found in previous series but previously unavailable. These include the National Intelligencer, the leading newspaper of the capital; the Massachusetts Spy, co-founded by Isaiah Thomas, one of the most successful and colorful journalists of the 18th century; the Charleston Courier, predecessor to the oldest daily newspaper in the South; and the Enquirer, Richmond's enormously influential weekly.

Superior bibliographic control

Like previous series of Early American Newspapers, Series 6 offers many significant titles listed in Clarence S. Brigham's "History and Bibliography of American Newspapers, 1690-1820." Bibliographic control for post-1820 titles in Series 6 comes from Winifred Gregory's "American Newspapers 1821-1936." A distinguished academic advisory board guided the title selection process.

An Archive of Americana® collection

As part of America's Historical Newspapers, Early American Newspapers, Series 6 shares a common interface with all other Readex newspaper series, including American Ethnic Newspapers. Additionally, all America's Historical Newspapers series are cross-searchable with all other Archive of Americana® collections.

UNLOCK HISTORY.

For more information on this and other Readex collections, call 800.762.8182, email sales@readex.com or visit www.readex.com

Readex
A Division of NewsBank