Quick Facts

Early American Newspapers, Series 9 features important, long-running titles with extraordinary depth of coverage.
- Chronicles the Jacksonian Era, the war with Mexico and Western expansion, the Civil War and Reconstruction.
- Expands the political, geographical and chronological depth of Early American Newspapers.

“...rich with titles of national and local importance…. a real research gem for historians, all levels of college students….Highly recommended.”
— C. W. Bruns, California State University, Fullerton, in Choice (July 2014)

Overview

Early American Newspapers, Series 9 features full runs through 1922 of important, long-running titles from diverse regions of the U.S. Each is notable for its depth of 19th- and early 20th-century news coverage, as exemplified by the large number of pages in every issue. Also in Series 9 are significant 19th-century newspapers which chronicle the Jacksonian Era, the war with Mexico and Western expansion, the Civil War and Reconstruction. Together, the titles in Series 9 further expand the political, geographical and chronological depth of Early American Newspapers.

Long-running titles from across the nation

Series 9 includes major titles of singular importance, including The Boston Herald, one of America’s top three papers in circulation in the 1870s; Bay City Times, which captures dramatic changes in Michigan as the automobile industry created a massive influx of immigrant workers and the American labor movement divided the state; and Marietta Journal, a key newspaper capturing the challenges facing the South at the turn of the century.

Also here are the Richmond Times-Dispatch, the newspaper of record for the capital of Virginia; predecessors of the Rockford Register Star, one of the oldest and largest papers in Illinois; predecessors of the San Diego Union-Tribune, this city’s longest-running and most important newspaper; and the Tampa Tribune, one of Florida’s oldest and most significant publications.

Essential 19th-century titles

Series 9 also provides five newspapers spanning critical 19th-century eras. These titles include the Auburn Daily Bulletin, one of the most highly regarded dailies in northwestern New York; Boston Traveler and Daily Evening Traveler, daily and weekly versions of this prominent competitor to The Boston Herald; Cape Ann Light and Gloucester Telegraph, from one of New England’s oldest ship-building and fishing centers; New York’s Daily Graphic, featuring lavish illustrations of contemporary news events and notable personalities; and Newark Daily Advertiser, a respected daily that become the Newark Star-Ledger.

Superior bibliographic control

Bibliographic control for Series 9 comes from Winifred Gregory’s “American Newspapers, 1821-1936” as well as by records from the Library of Congress. A distinguished academic advisory board guided the title selection process.

An Archive of Americana® collection

As part of America’s Historical Newspapers, Early American Newspapers, Series 9 shares a common interface with all other Readex newspaper series, including American Ethnic Newspapers. Additionally, all America’s Historical Newspapers series are cross-searchable with all other Archive of Americana® collections.

UNLOCK HISTORY.

For more information on this and other Readex collections, call 800.762.8182, email sales@readex.com or visit www.readex.com.